BITTER OPPOSITION TO WHARF AGREEMENT

CHINESE REBELS LOSING VANTAGE

Kuhio Will Stay, Says Holstein

That Prince J. Kuhio Kalaniana'ole, Delegate to Congress, will again be the standard bearer of the Republican party at the coming election, is the emphatic statement which H. L. Holstein, Republican national committee man of Hawaii, made this morning shortly after he disembarked from the Mauna Kea. He came down today on important private business, and will probably return to his home in Kohala next Tuesday morning.

In speaking of the prospective candidates for Delegate to Congress that the Republican party will put up at the next election, Holstein stated that Kuhio will be advanced as a standard bearer of the party, irrespective of the re-appointment of Governor Frear. He said that Kuhio will run again on the Republican platform, provided that it does not contain a plank endorsing the administration of Governor Frear. With the elimination of that particular plank, continued the speaker of the House, he is positive Kuhio would consent to run again for Delegate to Congress.

Holstein, who is one of the best informed men in the Territory today as to the sentiment of the Hawaiian voters, said that Kuhio, though he may be defeated in a fight which he is carrying on against Governor Frear, will never desert the Republican party. He will still remain a Republican. Holstein, when asked this morning whether he had anything to say for or against Kuhio's charges, refused to discuss the matter. He also declined to speak of Frear's administration. The speaker had nothing to say about the Kuhio-Frear fight, although there is a well-authenticated report that he is strongly in favor of Kuhio.

WORLD TOURISTS SEE CRATER

The Misses Mary, Anna and Margaret Harrington, the two former sisters and the latter a niece, are now in Honolulu on the last lap of a round-the-world tour which began in Los Angeles, Cal., three years ago. They came over from Hilo on the steamer Mauna Kea this morning, after a delightful trip to the volcano, and are enthusiastic in their praise of the grandeur of the crater and the hospitality of Mr. Lee, proprietor of the Crater House. Every courtesy was shown them at the picturesque hostelry, they aver, and in the evenings they were entertained with interesting stories dealing with the history of the place while grouped about the blazing fireplace. Included in these tales were many personal experiences of Mr. Lee, who is an oldtimer on the Big Island. The chauffeur who accompanied them from Hilo also acted as guide in making the ascent of the volcano, and his familiarity with the country was of great benefit to them.

Following Mr. Lee's suggestions, they saw tree mounds, the subaqueous forest and other interesting sights which otherwise they would have overlooked. Although they have beheld many wonders in foreign lands, the ladies declare that the volcano is by far the most wonderful thing they have seen. They also enjoyed the water trip immensely, and this morning at 4 o'clock they were called on deck to behold the comet, which was plainly visible at that hour.

PUBLIC HEARING SHOWS FIGHT IS NOT IMAGINARY

The proposed Hilo wharf agreement is being thrashed out today at a public called meeting in the capitol building that gives promise of continuing the greater part of the day, and which has called together nearly a hundred citizens representing in one capacity or another practically every substantial business interest in the Territory.

Beginning at ten o'clock this morning, the meeting continued shortly after noon, the entire morning being taken up in hearing arguments in favor of the proposed agreement, presented forcefully by L. A. Thurston, Mr. Thurston spoke for an hour and fifty-five minutes, the last few minutes of which were interrupted by questions and answers.

The delegation from the Hilo Board of Trade, President Elliott, D. E. Metzger and Mr. Wise, was delayed a few moments in arriving by the late coming of the Mauna Kea. The Hilo delegation reached Honolulu shortly after ten o'clock.

This morning's meeting indicated that the fight over the agreement will be a vigorous one. Business men and an unusual array of legal talent made up two-thirds of the assemblage, and at the conclusion of Mr. Thurston's statement, the other side was just beginning to get in its findings when an adjournment was taken until two o'clock this afternoon.

At two o'clock adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock Monday morning.

Among those present this morning were the commission members in the city, Chairman Campbell, F. B. McStocker and C. J. McCarthy. Mr. Thurston, B. F. Dillingham, W. F. Dillingham, H. G. Dillingham, A. W. Van Valkenburg, F. M. Swanzy, T. Clive Davies, L. M. Whitehouse, L. L. McCandless, Percy Morse of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, A. Lewis, Jr., S. M. Damon, Cecil Brown, T. H. Petrie, R. H. Trent, C. G. Balentyne, A. W. T. Bottomley, Richard Ivers, J. W. Waldron, W. H. Hoogs, John Drew, F. L. Waldron, W. O. Smith, Wm. Pfotenhauser, J. L. McLean of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company, and others. Governor Frear was an interested listener for a large part of the time.

Mr. Thurston's statement was presented in historical form. He reviewed at length the history of the Hilo railroad and its wharf plans, illustrating them with many maps. He paid a high tribute to the pioneering work of the Dillinghams and their unsparring efforts to build up the road in the face of many difficulties. Passing on from this, he came down to a later date and told of the private plans of the Hilo road for building the wharf and the later arrangements with the Territory to assume the responsibility. He answered, from his stand-

MERCHANTS' COMMITTEE MAKES REPORT ON LOCAL CONDITIONS

A special committee on health and sanitation of the merchants' association, headed by O. C. Swain, yesterday made a written report to President E. O. White, giving the result of investigations and tours of inspection made by the committee members to the insanitary spots of the city.

President White said this morning that the report not only contained a recital of conditions as they were found by the investigators, but recommendations for early action, and that the report and recommendations will be taken up at a meeting of the association either next Wednesday or Thursday.

"The association wants to get full information and an exact knowledge of what conditions are," he said this morning, "and at the meeting next week we hope to have Secretary Mott-Smith address us on the subject. We are in entire accord with the territory's efforts to clean up the city."

WOMAN INFORMER'S EVIDENCE FAILS TO CINCH "BLIND PIG"

The various tactics which Liquor Inspector Fennell uses in breaking up the "blind pigs" were completely knocked out of commission today, when M. Saiki, Japanese, was discharged by Judge Monsarrat in Police Court this morning after he had listened to the evidence in the case. The defendant was represented by Attorney Ozawa.

Unlike other cases, Fennell employed a Chinese woman as an informer and purchaser of liquor from Saiki. Miss Ah Moi, a well educated Chinese girl, who speaks the English language fluently, was introduced by the prosecution as the informer who went into the store of the defendant and bought some liquor from him. She stated on the stand that Fennell first approached her and asked her to go and buy some liquor from Saiki. She obeyed and carried out her instruction to the satisfaction of the liquor inspector. When she came out of Saiki's store with a bottle of wine under her arms, she was caught by Fennell and Crabbe, who waited outside the store.

Previous to that time she had bought some canned goods from the store of the defendant, and when she entered for the second time with a marked coin which Fennell gave her with which to purchase liquor, the Japanese unhesitatingly sold the liquor to her.

Fennell and Crabbe, jubilant over the successful work of the informer, placed Saiki under arrest. In Police Court this morning, the evidence adduced was such that Judge Monsarrat discharged the defendant at the conclusion of the trial. He intimated, however, that it was owing to the attitude of the prosecution in the Circuit Court in asking for nolle prosequi in a former case, where the evidence was more substantial in many instances than the one in the Saiki case, that he discharged the defendant.

John D. Rockefeller, in a public statement at Cleveland, O., said he owes his fortune to Samuel Andrews, who was a porter in a St. Louis store in 1858. He gave Mr. Rockefeller the idea of starting in the oil refining business.

WILSON CASE UP WEDNESDAY

The fight in the John H. Wilson road contract case has been continued until Wednesday morning at half past nine o'clock. This morning the answer of the Lord-Young Engineering Company and that of the Territory, for the loan fund commission was to have been heard but there were a number of small cases on the calendar and it was consequently held over.

This will be the big fight in the whole question for it is then that the real point of the matter will be got down to. The court will be asked to decide whether or not Wilson was the lowest responsible bidder.

NO SUNDAY BASEBALL

There will be no baseball at Athletic Park Sunday. This decision was reached by the League officials this afternoon. Road repairs and street work have cut up the approach to the park and backed water onto the ball lot, this being given as the reason for the postponement.

(Special Bulletin Cable.) NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 28.—United States Steel Corporation stock showed a three-quarter point gain over yesterday's figures. It closed quiet.

SUPERVISORS WRANGLE OVER THE RETENTION OF WILSON

Charles Wilson, road supervisor for Honolulu district, will receive a "reprimand" presumably for alleged misconduct and incompetency in the management of his office.

At least, so says Supervisor Murray, the staunchest supporter of the Wilson administration of road affairs on the Board of Supervisors.

"Wilson should receive a 'reprimand,'" states Murray in coming to the defense of his appointee to the head of the road department.

Three members of the board are at present in a quandary as to just what constitutes a "reprimand" such as might be delivered by Murray.

Low smiled when this brand of lady-like punishment was suggested, and he intimated that it might mean a gentle slap on the wrist with a feather duster.

From the expression that mantled the features of Road Chairman Sam Dwight, he might have suggested that a belated slap be used.

Wilson Holds His Job.

Charles Wilson, road supervisor for Honolulu district, still holds forth, and his connection with the city and county payroll has not yet been severed.

Supervisors Dwight, Low and Arnold, each a member of the road committee, have made a stiff fight for the official scalp of Wilson, but thus far have failed to gain their point. Wilson, on the other hand, a staunch

Hawaii's Work O. K. ---Pratt

That the sanitation work on Hawaii is progressing slowly but surely is the verdict of President J. R. Pratt of the Board of Health, who returned this morning from a tour of the island with Health Officer Shepherd. Some of the plantations are not taking up the work as they should, he says, while others are doing fine work. All of them, however, are gradually coming into line with modern requirements for the health of their work people.

President Pratt was the busiest man in Honolulu this morning, no exceptions being allowed. As soon as he reached the office he was taken away by Dr. Ramus to the quarantine station, and then when he came back again Secretary Kirk Porter had piled a whole heap of stuff on his desk that required immediate attention.

"We covered the whole of the island," he said in the few minutes that the Bulletin reporter could get with him, "and also went out to investigate the suspicious cases of which might turn out to be plague. I brought specimens along with me for examination, but until that is done we can not say for certain. Just before I left I heard that an old man had died, who was one of the contacts, and I left orders for specimens to be sent along from him, but they will not arrive until the next steamer."

"The sanitation of the island generally has much improved since my last visit, and some of the plantations are doing fine work. Those that have taken the matter up have everything that is required under modern methods for safeguarding the health of their men. Others there are that have only gone into the work in a half-hearted sort of way, but still they are doing something along the right lines and are better than the few that have so far refused to do anything."

"There are not many that have not made some attempt, and I think that even those who come into line very shortly. As I said, the sanitary conditions of the island are gradually becoming better right through. The work is slow, but it is also very steady, and I think that within the next few months we shall be able to see the results."

"Chief Inspector Bowman of Hawaii came up with me and will in all probability return some time next week."

COFFEE GROWERS MAKING PROFIT AT LAST

(Special Bulletin Correspondence.) HILLO, Oct. 27.—For the first time in the history of coffee planting in Hawaii, prices are such as to be satisfactory to the growers and to allow them a fair profit on the work they are doing, though by no means making this industry one which can be called a bonanza. This is the general gist of a statement made yesterday by Abe Louissou, the Hawaiian coffee planter, who has been foremost in the industry in this Territory for many years past. He states that as far as his own place is concerned the present crop has been a rather small one, but that the prospect ahead is good and still higher prices than those which are being obtained at present may be expected and should continue for some years to come.

Bob Scanlon is anxious to meet any 128-130 pounder in the ring. Scanlon comes from Philadelphia, and is said to be another Alcorn.
